

April 24, 2024

To Whom It May Concern:

RE: Marketing Lifecycle Status

Kindly be advised that Alpha Wire can no longer support ad hoc requests for Lifecycle status and “is this a correct and orderable part number” For answers to both of these questions, please download a copy of REACH-RoHS Status. If Column B contains “OBSOLETE or OBS” that part has been Obsolete or Discontinued. Otherwise, the part should be considered as active and available. Column A contains the exact item numbers from our ERP system. So, these are the correct and orderable part numbers. That said, there may be some differences between these and how part numbers are displayed on our website and catalog. But please understand that our Distributors and Channel Partners are easily able to translate between the two.

Best Regards,

David B. Watson
Director of Engineering
Alpha Wire